BIOGRAPHICAL NOTICES OF THE COMPOSERS

WHOSE WORKS ARE CONTAINED IN

THE SECOND VOLUME

OF

Dr. Arnold's Collection of Cathedral Music.

BY

EDWARD F. RIMBAULT, LL.D., F.S.A.

ALBERTUS BRYAN received his musical education under John Tomkins, organist of St. Paul's Cathedral, and at the restoration was appointed as his successor. In 1666 he received the appointment of organist of Westminster Abbey, which situation he resigned, in 1669, in favour of Dr. Blow.

Bryan was an eminent church musician, and, besides the Service reprinted in the following pages, the composer of many anthems, the words of which may be seen in Clifford's "Divine Services and Anthems, 1664." He died in the reign of Charles the Second, it is conjectured in 1670, and was buried in the cloisters adjoining Westminster Abbey.

WILLIAM CROFT, Mus. Doc. (See the Biographical Notices prefixed to the first volume).

MAURICE GREENE, Mus. Doc. was son of the Rev. Thomas Greene, Vicar of St. Olave, Jewry, and nephew of John Greene, Sergeant at Law. He was brought up in the choir of St. Paul's, under Charles King, almoner and master of the children, and, upon the breaking of his voice, was articled to Richard Brind, the organist of that cathedral. He was early noticed as an elegant organ player and composer for the Church, and obtained the place of organist of St. Dunstan's in the West, before he was twenty years of age. In 1717, on the death of Daniel Purcell, he was likewise elected organist of St. Andrew's, Holborn; but the next year his master, Brind, dying, Greene was appointed his successor, by the dean and chapter of St. Paul's, upon which event he quitted both the places he had previously obtained. On the death of Dr. Croft, in 1726, he was appointed organist and composer to the Chapel Royal, and on the death of Eccles, in 1735, master of his majesty's band. In 1730, he obtained the degree of Doctor in Music, at Cambridge, and was appointed public professor in the same university, in the room of Dr. Tudway.

About this period Dr. John Alcock, of Litchfield, published proposals for printing, by subscription, the services and anthems of the old composers, put into score and corrected from the errors which had crept into the part-books of the various cathedrals. Dr. Greene being now at the head of his profession, and finding himself, by the death of his uncle, Sergeant Greene, in a state of affluence, possessing (exclusive of his appointments), seven hundred pounds a year, opposed Dr. Alcock's scheme, and publicly announced his intention of presenting to the cathedrals, at his own expense, one correct copy, in score, of the works of the ancient masters, celebrated for their abilities in church music; in consequence of which Dr. Alcock relinquished his plan, and generously presented Dr. Greene with the materials in his possession.

Dr. Greene had made considerable progress in this work about the year 1755, when, finding his health declining, he made his will, and remitted the further prosecution of it to his disciple and friend, Dr. Boyce, who, in a manner worthy of himself, completed three volumes, and thereby gave to the public a collection of cathedral music that has not its equal in the world.

Dr. Greene died on the first day of December 1755, and was buried in the church of St. Olave, Old Jewry, leaving behind him only one child, a daughter, married to the Rev. Dr. Michael Festing, rector of Wyke Regis, in the County of Dorset, and a son of Michael Festing, an eminent composer and performer on the violin.

CHARLES KING, MUS. BAC. (See the Biographical Notices prefixed to the first volume).

JOHN TRAVERS, received his education in music in the chapel of St. George, Windsor, and being a favourite boy of Dr. Henry Godolphin, dean of St. Paul's, and provost of Eton College, was by him articled to Dr. Greene. About the year 1725, he was appointed organist of St. Paul's church, Covent-garden, and shortly afterwards of Fulham. Upon the decease of Jonathan Martin, in 1737, Travers was appointed organist of the Chapel Royal, soon after which, he quitted his place at Fulham.

Travers was a sound musician; he commenced an early acquaintance with Dr. Pepusch, and received some assistance from him in the course of his studies, which by a sedulous application he was very careful to improve. In the books of the Chapel Royal, are many anthems of his composition; but as a composer, he is best known to the world by Eighteen Canzonets, being verses and songs, chiefly taken from the posthumous works of Prior, which he set for two and three voices, in a style as elegant as it is original. Besides these, he published the whole book of psalms for one, two, three, four, and five voices, with a thorough-bass for the harpsichord.

Travers died in the year 1758, and was buried in the church-yard of St. Paul's, Covent-garden. He was succeeded as organist of the Chapel Royal by Dr. Boyce.

THOMAS TUDWAY, MUS. DOC., received his education in Music, at the Chapel Royal under Dr. Blow, and was a fellow-disciple of Purcell, Turner, and Estwick. In 1664, he was admitted to sing a tenor in the chapel at Windsor. After this, in 1664 he went to Cambridge, to which University he was invited by the offer of the place of organist of King's College Chapel; and in 1681 was admitted to the degree of Bachelor in Music.

In the year 1705, Queen Anne made a visit to the University of Cambridge; upon which occasion he composed an anthem "Thou, O God, hast heard my vows," which he performed as an exercise for the degree of Doctor in Music, and was created accordingly, and honoured with the title of public professor of music in that University. He also composed an anthem, "Is it true that God will dwell with man upon the earth?" on occasion of Her Majesty's first going to her royal chapel at Windsor; and for these compositions, and perhaps some others on similar occasions, he obtained permission to style himself composer and organist extraordinary to Queen Anne.

In the latter part of his life Dr. Tudway mostly resided in London. Having a general acquaintance with music, and being personally intimate with the most eminent of the profession, he was employed by Edward Earl of Oxford, in collecting for him musical compositions, chiefly of the Italians, and in making a collection of the most valuable services and anthems, the work of our countrymen. Of these he scored with his own hand as many as filled seven thick quarto volumes, which are now deposited with the Harleian Collection in the British Museum.

In the Music School, Oxford, is a painting of Dr. Tudway, with the anthem performed on the Queen's coming to Cambridge in his hand. The picture was presented to the University by Dr. Rawlinson.

JOHN WELDON. (See the Biographical Notices prefixed to the first volume).

The first system of the musical score consists of eight staves. The top two staves are vocal parts in treble clef. The next four staves are piano accompaniment, with the first two in treble clef and the last two in bass clef. The lyrics are distributed across the vocal staves, with some words appearing on multiple staves. The system concludes with the word 'A -' on the seventh staff.

The second system of the musical score continues the composition with eight staves. It follows the same layout as the first system, with vocal staves at the top and piano accompaniment below. The lyrics continue across the staves, ending with 'A - - - men.' on the seventh staff. The piano accompaniment provides harmonic support for the vocal lines.

praise thee, I will praise thee O Lord . . . I will

The musical score is written for a Solo Alto and Organ. It begins with a tempo marking of 'ANDANTE VIVACE' and a 3/4 time signature. The Solo Alto part is written on a single staff, while the Organ part is written on a grand staff (treble and bass clefs). The lyrics are: 'praise thee, I will praise thee O Lord I will'. The score includes various musical notations such as notes, rests, and dynamic markings like 'hr' (hairpins) and 'f' (forte). The organ part provides a harmonic accompaniment to the vocal line.
